Benson Claims No Applause Meter Governs Program

He Shares Speakers' Platform With Kefauver at Eldora, Iowa; Estes Says Administration Timid

ELDORA, Iowa (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, sharing the speakers' platform here today with Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said the Eisenhower administration is not running the farm program with a "political applause meter."

Kefauver, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, asserted the Republican administration is bungling the new farm program by administering it in "a timid and reluctant manner." He estimated farmers would get nearly two billion dollars more income this year if the new farm plan was properly administered.

Both men released in advance their remarks prepared for afternoon delivery at the Iowa Cornbelt Farm Family Field Day here. Kefauver followed Benson on the speaking schedule.

"We have measured our farm policies on the basis of what is good for the farmer and the nation—not on the political applause meter," Benson said.

Benson said administration policies have brought rising farm prices, expanding markets and reduced surpluses "with emphasis upon freedom for farmers, rather than upon regimentation and controls."

The secretary said this year's new soil bank program cannot be a full-scale operation.

"The real test for this program," Benson said, "will come in 1957, 1958 and 1959 when we can put it fully into operation."

He said the soil bank program is a temporary one to reduce surpluses. He said it was made necessary "by the unwise programs of the past, the high rigid price supports."

Kefauver said the Eisenhower administration is dragging its heels on the 1956 farm program. He declared:

"Reliable calculations indicate that as much as $1,800,000,000 additional farm income this year could result from proper administration of the farm bill. Farmers will not get this aid if the delay in bungling policies of the administration continue. They could get it with strong administration, prompt announcement of the programs and energetic effort to facilitate farmer participation."

As matters stand now, Kefauver said, the Eisenhower administration "plans to provide less than half of the aid to farmers that was intended by Congress."

Kefauver said that farm income is down 10 per cent from the "already low level of last year."

But the sister-in-law walked into the living room from a bedroom and was shot and killed by Wilson, who fired through the glass in the front door, the deputy said.

From there, Crozier said, Wilson's path led to a nearby road where Emmitt Dennison, 42, of Warren, was driving with a 10-year-old son of Wilson.

The deputy said Wilson forced Dennison's car off the road, shot him in the upper forearm and then started to beat him. Dennison told officers he finally managed to escape to his car and flee.

The boy fled on foot and was found later, unharmed.

Crozier said Dennison described himself as a friend of the Wilson family.

Wilson's next stop was at the home of another sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Botts, 33, killed by two bullets fired through the door of her home near Cortland, near here.

Two boys, Arthur Johnson and Thomas Heidelberg, each 17, told the details of the girl being kidnapped from the parked car.

They said they were sitting in the car with Nancy Worthington, 16, of Leavittsburg, when another car pulled up and a man got out.

They said the man drew his gun, forced them to walk down the road and then forced the girl into his car and sped off.

Today, deputies searching the area found the body of Miss Worthington in a ditch near Windham, several miles away.

Another deputy, Joseph Murphy, said today Wilson was released on $300 bond last June 19 after his wife had signed an assault and battery complaint against him.

Murphy quoted Wilson as saying at the time of his release that, "This is the last time they'll get me alive."

Future Action Inquiry

Dag Hammarskjöld Will Be Questioned On Refugee Story About Spy Pressure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Newsmen prepared to ask U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today what action he plans if inquiry supports a Russian refugee's charges that a U.N. employee tried to enlist him as a Soviet spy.

The U.N. employee, a Russian citizen named Aleksei Petukhov, labeled the charge by the refugee Michale Shatov, "false from top to bottom."

Correspondents were to meet Hammarskjöld this morning at a news conference the secretary general had scheduled as a routine matter about the time Shatov's charges became public.

U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced he would protest strongly to the U.N. if investigation bore out Shatov's charges.

A former Soviet army captain, the refugee is now employed at the Columbia University Library. He told a news conference that Petukhov and Rostislav Shapovalov, a member of the Soviet U.N. delegation, had attempted to "pressure me to try to make me a spy." Petukhov is junior programming officer in the U.N. Technical Assistance Administration.

Shapovalov could not be reached for comment. But his delegation chief, Arkady A. Sobolev, said the charges were "a lie and a fabrication, nothing more."

Shatov claimed Petukhov and Shapovalov had worked on him while all three were members of his English class at Columbia. He said they had hinted they could discredit him with U.S. security agencies and implied that Sobolev was aware of what they were doing.

Shatov gave secret testimony to the same effect a week earlier before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Lodge told newsmen he had asked Washington for all the facts on the case. He said if they confirmed the charges, he would protest. The conduct described, he declared, would be a "reprehensible thing," violating the oath of neutrality U.N. employees must take.

Forecasts More Rain For Missouri Sections

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri is in the path of more moisture. Scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast for the north and west central sections this afternoon and are expected to spread over most of the state, except the extreme southeast, by tonight.

Some of the thunderstorms are expected to be locally heavy in the north portion this afternoon and evening.

The scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected to continue in the central and south portions Saturday.

Temperatures in the north are expected to be down in the lower 80s Saturday. In the south they'll be in the 90s.

For the next 5 days the weather bureau expects temperatures to be 5 to 10 degrees above normal.

Charges GOP Failed In Its Defense Plan

Says Civil Defense Should Be Federal Responsibility

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman charged today in testimony before a House subcommittee that the Eisenhower administration has failed to come up with "a realistic effective plan for civil defense."

Harriman testified at a civil defense hearing of the House subcommittee on military operations. "The present national administration," he said in a prepared text, "has failed to recognize the enormously increased responsibilities for civil defense which are imposed on it under today's conditions and has failed to exercise the necessary leadership, either in a Congress or before the people."

Harriman, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, said it "is absurd that we are today operating under the Civil Defense Act of 1950 which leaves primary responsibility of civil defense to the states and the communities."

"In the intervening six years, many of the basic concepts of warfare have changed. The range of blast damage from a single nuclear weapon has increased from an area of 50 square miles to an area of 1250 square miles. The dangerous effects of radioactive fall-out from a hydrogen bomb explosion covers huge areas, as large as several states."

He recommended: "Giving the federal government primary responsibility for civil defense."

Cabinet status for the federal civil defense administrator. Preserving state and local civil defense organizations to carry out the plan.

"It seems to me imperative," Harriman said, "that the federal government recognizes that civil defense is a coequal of military defense and must be provided for with the same degree of devotion and sacrifice."

Gentry Patterson, president of the local group and a partner in the construction company, Patterson Bros., will be in charge of the weekend event.

The club members will arrive at the Missouri State Fair Grounds on Saturday morning and erect antennas for the test. The transmitters will be set up in the Woman's Building at the fair grounds. At 4 p.m. the group will put the transmitters on the air and attempt to make contact with other stations all over the country. In last year's test, the club's operators talked to 240 stations in 36 states using both code and voice. Mr. Patterson said that he expected that record to be beaten by quite a bit this year.

The public is invited to visit at anytime during the test period.

Holds 45 Minute Session—

Ike Has No Comment on GOP Convention Planning Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held a 45-minute "sitting up" work conference with White House aides today but remained aloof—officially at least—from a meeting of Republican National Convention planners a few blocks away.

The White House, in a new indication the President's recovery from his operation is continuing as expected, decided to cut from three to two the number of daily medical bulletins on his condition. The medical bulletins will be issued only on Saturday.

Today was the longest period Eisenhower had sat up in a chair since his June 9 abdominal operation. His press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said the President is not particularly tired after his daily meetings with staff members but added:

"He knew when he got back to bed that he had been sitting up for a long time."

Hagerty replied "sure" when asked if Eisenhower knew about today's meeting of 40 GOP leaders to complete arrangements for the national convention. In answer to a further question, Hagerty said Eisenhower probably would get a report on the meeting tomorrow from his chief aide.

This would be the first apparent political discussion for the President since his hospitalization began, although Hagerty declined to classify Adams' report as political. Asked if Eisenhower had had any other talks of a similar nature—discussions that might be classified as political—Hagerty said "no."

There was no official word on when he would leave Walter Reed Hospital, although there were informal indications Eisenhower might be released late next week.

In today's work session Eisenhower signed 11 bills. He also signed a civil atomic energy agreement with Cuba and, Hagerty said, dispatched "quite a few" personal letters and telegrams. Eisenhower also accepted, "with the greatest reluctance," the resignation of Joseph M. Dodge as head of his Council on Foreign Economic Policy.

The stagecoach will arrive in Sedalia at 11 a.m. Saturday and can best be seen in the 400 block of Ohio, in front of the courthouse, where traffic will be prohibited all that morning and will be detoured while the stagecoach travels the length of that block. A large crowd of young Western fans is expected to be lined up along the sidewalks to see the arrival of the coach, and the Sedalia Jaycees are encouraging the youngsters to wear their cowboy and cowgirl outfits for the occasion.

Magistrate Frank Armstrong has said that he will deal severely with any stagecoach robbers who attempt any crimes in Sedalia, and it is reported the sheriff has enlisted the help of a special posse to safeguard the passage of the Jefferson City stagecoach.

Sentiment Changes Action of Canadian School Trustees

TORONTO (AP)—Economy gave way to sentiment when Toronto school trustees voted to let Harold Morley keep on looking after the schools' 382 clocks, even though his bid was not the lowest.

Morely asked $2,000 a year for the job, $90 higher than that of Canada Clock Co. Some of the trustees were in favor of accepting the lower price.

But Morely has tended the clocks for 20 years and his father looked after them for 30 years before him.

"I've known him for 20 years and I'd certainly hate to see him lose this business for $90," said one trustee.

Considers New Resolution Of Rejection

Declines Proposal To Join Two Groups In Lutheran Faith

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod today considers a resolution which would reject an invitation to join the Lutheran World Federation.

The two million-member synod, in session for its 43rd triennial convention, yesterday declined an invitation that it consider organic union with two other groups, the United Lutheran Church in America (ULCA) and the Augustana Lutheran Church (ALC).

The joint invitation from the ULCA and ALC had asked the Missouri Synod "to consider organic union as to give real evidence of our unity in the faith and to proceed to draft a constitution and devise organizational procedures to effect union."

In turning thumbs down, the convention agreed organic union should not be considered "before doctrinal unity has been established." The synod, however, said it was willing to join discussions leading to doctrinal unity with the ALC, ULCA and any other Lutheran Church in America.

Like the resolution adopted yesterday, the one dealing with the Lutheran World Federation invitation also called for rejection. The inter-synodical and doctrinal committee noted membership in the LWF could "involve us in a union in spiritual matters with groups not in doctrinal agreement with us."

The resolution, however, expressed willingness to meet with LWF representatives to discuss points in question.

With election of their state officers out of the way, delegates to Missouri Boys' State Friday turned their attention to selection of two Missourians at Boys' Nation.

Frank Woodfill of Nevada was the losing Nationalist nominee for governor.

Reports Radio Signals Seem to Originate On the Planet Venus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—New radio signals "which presumably originate on Venus" were reported today by an Ohio State University radio astronomer.

The findings were made by Dr. John D. Kraus, director of the university's radio observatory. Earlier this month, Dr. Kraus reported radio signals resembling static from terrestrial thunderstorms were received from the planet Venus—sometimes referred to as earth's "twin."

The astronomer said the new signals, of a distinctly different type, resemble radio telegraphy in many ways.

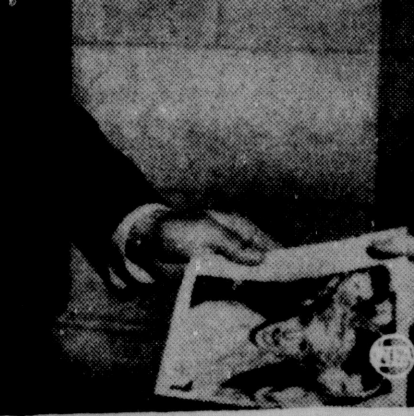

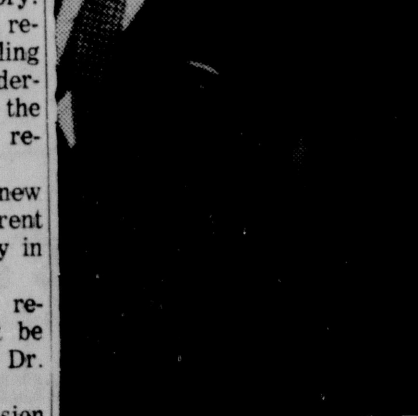

"What ever phenomenon is responsible for the signals must be of rather complex type," Dr. Kraus said.

This type of radio emission has "many of the characteristics of signals from a terrestrial radio telegraph transmitting station," he said.

Sufficiently numerous and varied observations of the signals have been made to make it appear very likely that they do come from Venus, Dr. Kraus added.

Hal Boyle's Column— American Male Is Really Tops When It Comes to Fashions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Hey, Joe, you wear your pants too long.

Your coat sleeve is too long also.

But in spite of that, Joe, you are the male peacock of the world, the best dressed man on earth.

Who says so? Michael Daroff says so. Daroff is president of H. Daroff and Sons, a Philadelphia firm which this year expects to turn out 900,000 men's suits and sport outfits.

Many an American wife thinks her husband is downright skillful when it comes to taking out the garbage or drying the dishes, but she complains that too often he looks like a walking gunnysack. When she thinks of a well dressed man, she thinks of a Continental type, a suave European.

Daroff, who just returned from an extended visit to Europe, says this is all nonsense—that American wives are married to Beau Brummels and don't know it.

"They should see how European men really dress," he said. "Style-wise, they are miles behind the times. The fashion center for men's clothing isn't over there. It's here.

"American men are the best dressed in the world."

Daroff said a proof of this is that European men, who tend to look down on American husbands as kitchen slaves to their wives, do envy them their clothing.

"They are hungry for American styles," he said. "A 'Made in America' label on men's clothing has come to mean comfort and fashion leadership on the Continent.

"They'd all wear American suits if they could afford them, but they can't—because of high import duties and taxes. On the other hand if European manufacturers shipped over here the same style of clothing they make for their own people, we couldn't sell them. We'd have to give them away. Some of their styles are the same they were showing in 1939."

Asked which European men were the best dressed, Daroff said flatly:

"None of them. The English still go around in bowler hats and suits that look two sizes too small for them. On the Continent the suits are more comfortable but they have a box-like look.

"American clothing is designed to flatter a man and make him look taller. In Europe they don't bother to flatter a customer—they just cover him up."

Daroff, who is as full of statistics as he is of sartorial patriotism, gave these further facts and style conjectures.

"The somber charcoal look is on the way out in America. (At last!) It was too old mannish. A brighter gray, and of course blue, will be the favorite colors this fall. "Double breasted suits are coming back. So is the square-shaped shoulder.

"What are the most common mistakes men make in their clothing? They wear their pants too long—they should just reach the

THEY'LL BE BLOWING INTO TOWN—Summer's terrible-tempered girl friends, the Hurricane Sisters, are due to blow into town along Atlantic and Gulf coasts 'most any time now. Tagged with girls' names for easy identification, their visiting season falls officially between June 15 and Nov. 15. Unpredictable women, they may arrive before or after the dates which are considered the norm. This year, a Navy hurricane hunter plane went to sea off New Orleans on June 13 to investigate a disturbance which, if it developed into a full-fledged storm, would have been our first unwelcome visitor, Hurricane Anna.

Designates Nixon To Make Manila Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today designated Vice President Nixon to represent him at July 4 Independence Day ceremonies for the Philippines Republic in Manila.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made the announcement at a 7:45 a.m. news conference.

Hagerty stressed that Nixon, who will be accompanied by his wife, will make the trip at Eisenhower's "urging."

shoe top, not break over the instep—and their coatsleeves, too. At least a half inch of shirt cuff should protrude from the coat-sleeve.

"About 51 per cent of American husbands are accompanied by their wives when buying a suit. But men should listen even more to their wives when picking out the shoes, ties, socks and shirts to wear with their suits. Women are better at selecting a good color ensemble. They should be. They've got more time to think about such things.

"Half the men's suits sold in America are priced around $65.

"For $700 a man can be well dressed on a basic wardrobe consisting of three winter suits, three summer suits, two sport coats, four pairs of slacks, two topcoats and a raincoat. He can keep up such a wardrobe for less than $200 a year."

Daroff is probably his own best customer. He gets 20 new suits a year—and buys them from himself.

Couple, Both 90, Get Married After Meeting

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A man 90 years old is too old to get married, says Jim Teilborg, so he's getting married tomorrow — one day before his 90th birthday. His bride-to-be is also 89.

Teilborg and Mrs. Annettie Hendershot, both widowed, met two months ago at a rest home. And that's where they'll live after the ceremony tomorrow.

"Some people might say we're in too much of a hurry," Mrs. Hendershot said yesterday when the couple applied for a marriage license. "But we like each other very much and I think we'll get along just fine."

Bethany Gets Proposal From State Officials

BETHANY, Mo. (AP)—Water-pinch Bethany, its municipal reservoir down to a two-week supply, could take heart today. Its pleas for help have not gone unheeded.

Yesterday, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly called on Army engineers for a proposed 20-mile pipeline which would tap the North Grand River.

Meanwhile, this northwest Missouri town of 2,714 awaited an emergency truckload of water from neighboring Pattonsburg, 17 miles south.

Also, Fort Smith, Ark. — with two lakes "spilling over"—has offered Bethany a trainload of water.

KENNETT, Mo., (AP) — A 23-year-old Arkansas man, who escaped from Alcoa Reformatory May 2, was captured here last night by the State Highway Patrol.

Murrell E. Greer of Paragould, Ark., who said he swam the Missouri River to escape from the reformatory near Jefferson City, was recognized by a state trooper who stopped him in a car for a routine check.

Greer was recaptured in Los Angeles late in May after his escape from the reformatory but slipped away at Bartlesville, Okla., from officers who were bringing him back to the Missouri institution.

Highway Patrolman Charles Whitehead said he recognized Greer from pictures circulated by the reformatory. Greer admitted his identity at the jail here.

Pledges to Fight For Abolition of Income Tax Laws in Campaign

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — Thomas J. Gavin, candidate for United States senator, said last night "I'm going to fight with all my strength to abolish the income tax law."

Gavin, campaigning for the Democratic nomination, said the elimination of what he termed "the wholesale give-away of American dollars" would go far toward relieving the income tax burden.

"Do you know what they write on buildings and sidewalks in foreign countries in thanks for our dollars," he asked. "They write, 'Go home, Yank.' Certainly we must help in times of stress, but to keep pumping billions of American dollars into the foreign coffers is a form of diplomatic blackmail."

He said he would support legislation to abolish the income tax law and "the hated sixteenth amendment," adding:

That is the amendment where the harder we work, the more we pay and where for the slip of the pen the American citizen is herded into prison with the hardened criminal. It's the law where the tax investigators are shadowing the businessman like a Communist agent."

Gavin spoke at a meeting of the Unit Masonry Assn.

Stolen Car's Trunk Yields Grocery Cache

When State Troopers investigated the find, they checked the car over, and it was not until late Tuesday that entrance to the trunk of the vehicle was obtained. That was when a representative of the insurance company came after it and unlocked the trunk.

In the trunk of the car was found a large quantity of groceries which were reported to have been stolen from the Plymouth Grocery, near Emporia, Kansas, 30 miles east of Florence. The thieves then went to Florence, Mo., and stole another which they abandoned at Hamilton, Kan., southeast of Florence, Kan., according to information received by the Missouri State Patrol.

Packed tight in the car from Kansas were the following articles: Ten pairs gloves; four one-pound boxes of crackers; 48 candy bars; 36 bottles cola; six bottles lemon soda; 30 cans grape soda; 23 cans orange soda; nine loaves white bread; one loaf raisin bread; three packages of potato chips; two full pack vanilla wafers; one package coconut bars; one package cinnamon rolls; three packages chocolate fudge cookies; three molasses cookies; two oatmeal cookies; two packages of graham crackers; one cream wafers; eight paper plates; two cigarettes; one roll paper towels; 6 cans of beef stew; 17 cans spaghetti and meat balls; 18 cans chicken noodle soup; eight cans prune plums; one can blackberries; and one 5 gal gasoline can.

Dr. Beckmeyer came to Sedalia in 1909. His career as a practicing physician dates back to the days of the MKT hospital in the Dr. E. F. Vance era. He is a charter member of the local Kiwanis club.

Proceeding the talk was the showing of a colored movie, "Losing To Win," the theme of which related to diet, general health and other factors of good living habits. Kiwanian Norman Pitocain, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone, operated the projector. The film was produced by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the district manager of which, William Jackson, was program chairman.

Dr. Beckmeyer was introduced by A. H. Wilks, retired superintendent of Metropolitan Life. In his talk the speaker stressed the dangers of overweight, what makes a person fat, the body's need for food and exercise, the advantages of a well-planned diet, the mistaken conception that weight tables and patent nostrums are the key to body balance.

John E. Snodgrass, secretary of the Sedalia Savings and Loan Association, with a perfect attendance of five years, was introduced as Kiwanian of the Week by Vice-President Mike Giokaris, who presided in absence of President Jack Shoemaker.

Invocation was by Sylvan Woolery. Singing was led by the Rev. Arthur Schmidt with Lillian Fox accompanist.

Guests were: J. Albert Dear, Harry Walsh and K. U. Love, with Henry Salveiter; and James Denny, with William Jackson.

Peace, Order If No Settlement Is Reached

NEW YORK (AP)—The strike arrangements being made by the United Steelworkers in the event of no contract settlement by midnight June 30 call for peace and order.

"The strike at your plant must be conducted orderly and peacefully," is the first of the instructions sent to district directors by I. W. Abel, the union's secretary-treasurer.

The orders forbid drinking on picket duty and insist that banners or placards deal solely with strike issues.

Picket lines shall operate on at least 3 shifts, 24 hours a day, and 7 days a week. More and shorter shifts can be arranged if desired.

"The pickets shall not bar management officials, superintendents or foremen, or office workers not on strike from entering the plant, mill or mine."

Cooperative relations shall be established with all municipal and police authorities. Picketing shall be peaceful and all lawful regulations shall be observed.

Accidents

Three cars were damaged in an accident at 607 West 16th about 1 a. m. Friday. Involved were a 1956 Buick station wagon driven by Robert Richard, Parkhurst, Route 3, a 1949 Chevrolet sedan owned by Cletus Pritzel and a 1948 Ford sedan owned by Kenneth A. Schreiner.

The accident occurred as Parkhurst, driving west on 16th, apparently fell asleep at the wheel, as he told the police, and crashed into the other two cars. He struck the car of Pritzel, which in turn went into the car of Schreiner.

The Buick driven by Parkhurst was damaged on the front and left sides, Pritzel's car was damaged in the front and the rear; and the car of Schreiner was damaged on the front end.

Parkhurst's auto was taken to the O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick lot.

An agreement was reached at the scene of the accident.

Sedalia police made the investigation.

Steel Labor Meet Faces Strike Date

NEW YORK (AP)—Tinged with new bitterness, the steel labor contract negotiations continue today in the face of an inexorably approaching strike deadline, now only eight days away.

Accusing the industry of "conspiracy" to force a shutdown, the United Steelworkers went methodically about the task of setting up their strike machinery. Should it come, the strike could idle 650,000 workers immediately and play havoc with the economy.

The companies were standing fast, but there was a faint hint that the giant U.S. Steel Corp. might not be as unyielding as the others.

The "Big Three" of steel — U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic — sent letters to their 350,000 workers praising the industry proposal for a five-year contract. There was a note of finality in the Bethlehem and Republic texts not noted in U.S. Steel's.

As the company negotiators put it last week: Steel's offer is not a floor from which the companies will be bargained upward.

In general terms, the companies figure they are offering fixed annual pay hikes of 7.3 cents an hour. Wages now average $2.46. The companies estimate the first year's cost of their "package" at 14 to 15 cents.

The steel talks started out this year in so-called joint negotiations involving the "Big Three." The apparent hope was that a contract agreement would set the pattern for other companies.

A deadlock ensued when the companies announced they would bargain only within the framework of their own proposal. For two days the union then carried on separate talks with individual companies.

When these also got nowhere, there was a return to joint bargaining yesterday. After 3½ hours the meeting adjourned. Again there had been no headway.

British Impose Fine Of $98,000 on Greek Cypriot Community

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British authorities imposed a collective fine of $98,000 on the Greek Cypriot community of the town of Limassol today.

An announcement said that since the beginning of this year there have been six assassinations in the town, that 10 persons have been wounded in attempted assassinations and that there have been 70 bomb incidents.

"The perpetrators of some of the more serious crimes made good their escape through the failure of Greek Cypriot onlookers to assist in their capture, either personally or with evidence," the announcement said.

"It is understood that the commissioner of Limassol may use part of the proceeds of this fine to pay compensation to the victims of terrorism or their dependents."

Extremists of EOKA, the underground movement demanding union of Cyprus with Greece, have been active in Limassol and the surrounding area.

Three Die in Private Nursing Room Blaze

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Two mentally disturbed women burned to death and a third suffocated today in a blaze which razed a wing of a private hospital and nursing home.

One woman was hospitalized with injuries. Seven patients were led to safety.

The institution, known as the Tenacre Foundation, identified the dead as:

Mrs. Bess Meyer, 77, of Philadelphia, formerly of Texas.

Mrs. Eleanor Sampson, 49, of Boston.

Mrs. Ellen Nuggett, 81, of New Orleans.

All lived in South Hall, a one-story frame structure erected in 1928 and scheduled to be torn down.

The institution is privately operated for Christian Scientists but is not connected with the Church. J. Burwell Harrison, superintendent of the institution, said the fire may have started in a room occupied by a young girl admitted last night.

Fire Chief George Cahill said the wooden building went up "like an ammunition dump."

May Search Capitol City For Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — An electronic search of the entire Capitol for wiretapping and secret recording equipment became a possibility today in the wake of a security inspection of one senator's office.

The office to which Defense Department agents went uninvited was part of the suite of Sen. Lehman (D-NY). It adjoins a hearing room in which other senators have been receiving secret military information.

The agents found nothing wrong. But their search, aided by Capitol police, touched off a Senate furor yesterday that pushed aside debate on a $5 billion dollar defense appropriation bill.

Lehman, who protested what he called "careless snooping," was promised apologies from the Defense Department, Sen. Symington's (D-Mo) Special Armed Services subcommittee occupying the room adjoining his office, and through Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the entire Senate.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) called on the Senate to hire "experts in electronic devices" to check whether snoopers are tapping telephones of senators or planting microphones in the walls of hearing rooms.

Sen. Green (D-Rl), chairman of the Senate Rules Committee which would pass first on any such investigation, was out of the city. But committee attaches started looking into the matter.

Johnson said that the incident was "outrageous" and "typical bureaucratic stupidity," that he viewed it with "utter horror" and that he had asked the Capitol police force for a report on their part in the affair.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) called the ballooning affair "a lot of political baloney and a waste of time."

Symington called a quick meeting of his group after Lehman protested the "methods used" in the unusual security check. Testimony developed that it was "routine" for Defense Department security agents to check committee rooms and adjacent areas to make certain no secret listening devices are in use.

But Lehman declared it was "an insult to the Senate," and complained that no one ever asked permission to check in his office. "I not only would have given my permission," he said, "but I would have cooperated with the officers."

Sen. Saitonstall (R-Mass) told Lehman the subcommittee was sorry about the incident but said the security agents were trying "to do their duty."

Refuses to Play Strip Poker, Nearly Drowns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Her husband, not the deuces, was wild when she refused to play strip poker. That story won a pretty blonde cocktail waitress a divorce.

Mrs. Juanita Bradley, 27, testified yesterday that her husband, John, 29-year-old shipyard worker, was so angry he almost drowned her when she declined to enter the strip-tease card game in mixed company.

"He took me down to the beach and dumped me in the water," she said, "and told me he was going to drown me. He held my head under water."

Mrs. Bradley got the divorce. She says she doesn't even know how to play poker.

Don't Crowd The First Line

For a brief time when Bothwell hospital parking lot was first made available for use, the only entrance and exit was by an alley and a tight squeeze past a telephone pole.

This inconvenience was quickly corrected. After crushed rock was spread on the lot the curb on Thompson street was broken almost the entire length of the half block and a concrete slanting approach laid.

Hospital visitors were urged to use this lot instead of parking in the streets around the building creating congestion, fender scraping and impediment of emergency vehicles attempting to reach the hospital.

Response was immediate.

The new entrance is wide enough to accommodate ten automobiles abreast. As might be expected — and this has been going on during day and night visiting hours — the first ten motorists using the lot park their cars in the first line. Thus no other cars can enter the lot except by the alley and past the pole hazard. It is remarkable that some of the first-in parkers haven't had unreasonable contempt of courtesy enough to even block the alley entrance.

All of which is merely a matter of thoughtlessness for the other eleventh or twelfth or fiftieth hospital visitors who would like also to use the new parking lot, but can't get in very handily.

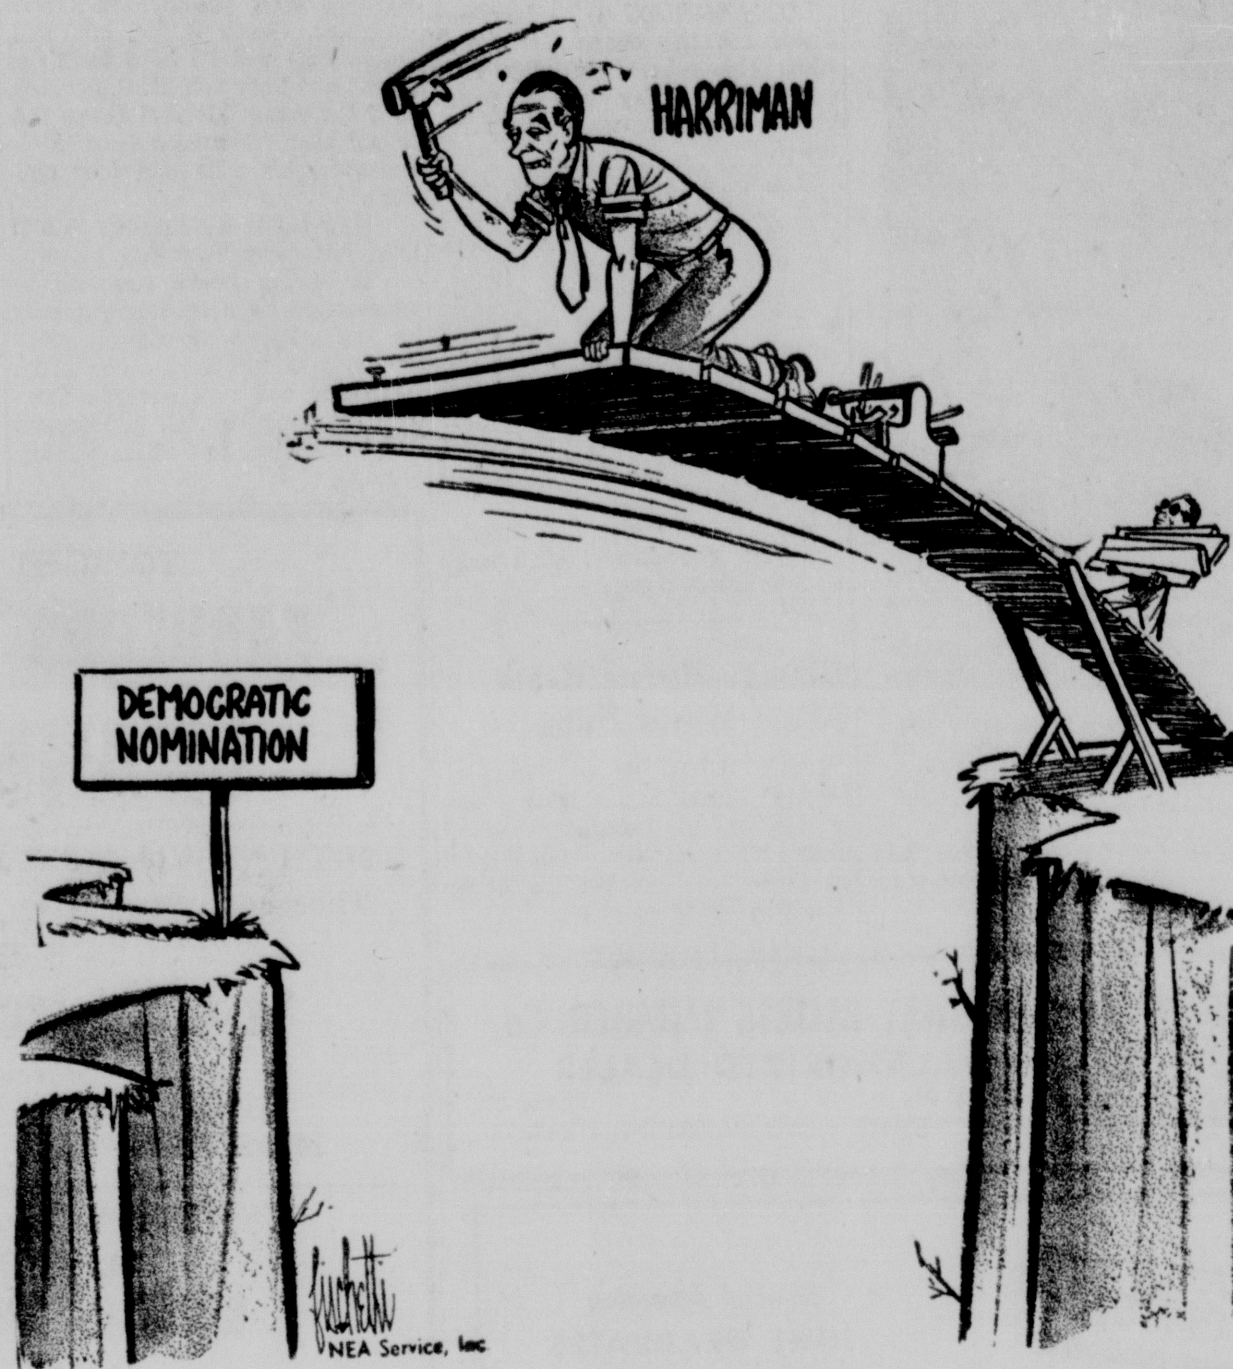

Many may raise a big fuss about having so many directional signs to guide them. On the other hand motorists have become so dependent upon them that the parking lot situation out Bothwell hospital way is just another indication of that. Without signs or markings the motorist is considerate of only one person—himself.

So we have signs. And that's what it will take at Bothwell hospital parking lot after the blacktop is laid on the rock base. Then the paint brush on the pavement will be used to mark off stalls and lines to indicate where ample space is allowed at one end of the lot for entrance, the other for exit of vehicles.

Oh yes, and at night there'll have to be lights so the motorists can't say they didn't see the lines. Council has already provided for that.

At any rate, while the parking lot is being used pending the final improvements it is pertinent to suggest that the motorists first in move back and leave room for entrance and exit of the late comers.

The World Today—

Pineau Suggests Inferiority Complex

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The French have plainly asked the United States if it feels inferior in a peaceful contest with communism to show whether the West or Russia has the better way of life.

The question, asked by French Foreign Minister Pineau, could also be interpreted as asking the Eisenhower administration if it has no ideas of its own in trying to handle the Russians' shift in tactics.

That the shift from belligerency to an expressed desire for peaceful coexistence has had some success—at least if only in driving a small wedge between the allies—was illustrated here the past 10 days.

Pineau followed West Germany's chancellor here in a meeting with Secretary of State Dulles and Adenauer summed up their ideas in a communiqué June 13. Dulles and Pineau issued a communiqué June 20.

The three men solidly agreed that the Soviet shift from hard to soft should not induce them to weaken their military alliances. On the contrary: All three say the North Atlantic Treaty Organization should be strengthened.

But while Dulles and Adenauer, in their communiqué, harped on their distrust of Russian sincerity, that problem wasn't even mentioned in the communiqué which Pineau signed with Dulles.

That was undoubtedly because Pineau wanted it that way. There can be no doubt of Dulles' distrust of Russian intentions. He's expressed it often enough, no later than yesterday when he made a speech denouncing the Russian leadership.

Pineau told how he felt in a speech before the National Press Club on the same day, June 20, he signed the communiqué. He brushed aside as of minor importance right now the question of Russian sincerity. In brief he said:

If the Russians want peaceful coexistence, then the West ought to take steps to help make it a reality. It's worth trying. If then the Russians prove disappointing, the West can reconsider the whole problem.

This would indicate he thought it possible the Russians were sincere.

He explained: They need peace—to build up their living standards and keep their promises of economic aid to other countries—and will have to make sacrifices to get it. "So collaboration between East and West may become a reality," he said.

If the Reds and the West exchange visitors, he added, the visiting Russians, given a chance to taste freedom in the West, may be able to bring about solid changes in Russia when they return home.

This is where he raised the question: Is the West afraid in such an exchange it won't have more appeal than communism? Being a diplomat and a visitor, he didn't specifically name the United States when he said:

"Would it be possible we have an inferiority complex on this point?"

If the Eisenhower administration has any basically new ideas for handling the Russians now, it hasn't produced them. It still follows the stiff-arm policy of nothing but military alliances and foreign aid laid down by President Truman during the cold war.

The administration at the moment doesn't appear to go beyond that policy except to a degree which could be called tit-for-tat or, as President Eisenhower put it, "reciprocal" exchanges.

That means that if the Russians invite an American military leader over there—as they did the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining—this country can invite a Russian military leader here.

Your Child's Health--

Vitamin D, Like a Bullet, Puts An End to Rickets

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Every once in a while one still hears of a youngster who suffers from rickets — or a grownup who had it as a child. It is principally of importance to children since it can be prevented in youth and not too much can be done about it in later years.

Rickets is a disorder which causes softening of the bones in growing children. It can affect dogs and other animals as well. It results from a vitamin deficiency, Vitamin D.

It is of most importance in northern climates in which the winters are long and sunlight scanty, since normally sunlight acts on the skin to produce this vitamin so that the body receives a sufficient supply of it.

Perhaps the first physician to describe rickets was an Englishman named Daniel Whistler. He was born in 1619, and attended Oxford where he was given the degree of Doctor of Physick in 1647. He was a friend of Samuel Pepys, whose well-known diary mentions him on several occasions.

In describing rickets, Whistler mentioned the knotty swellings which grew on the sides of the chest. "The whole bony system," he said, "is in truth flexible like wax that is rather liquid so that the flabby and toneless legs scarcely sustain the weight of the superimposed body."

The teeth, he pointed out, are out too late and with excessive trouble, and often when cut they decay.

He mentioned the narrow chest and prominence of the breast bone, as well as several of the other symptoms of advanced rickets.

The name of another Englishman, Francis Glisson, born in 1597, is also associated with the early description of rickets. His story, published somewhat after that of Whistler's, mentioned the softness of the bones and other signs.

"A kind of slothfulness and numbness doth invade the Joints presently after the beginning of the disease," he said, "and by little and little is increased so that daily they are more and more averse from motion. The younger children who are carried about in their nurses' arms, when they are delighted and pleased with anything do not laugh so heartily, neither

Swedes Hire a Driver If They Feel They're Tipsy

By WALT DEAR
Our Correspondent Abroad

STOCKHOLM — "One for the road" puts a Swede in jail. Hard drinkers since the Viking times, the Swedes have forced themselves to give up drinking when they drive.

An act of Parliament requires every suspect be given two tests, a clinical and a blood test. When a policeman apprehends a tipsy driver, he makes the usual checks for registration cards and license numbers. This process is similar to American police methods.

More complex is the blood test. When the suspect is taken to the police station, a physician checks the percentage of alcohol in the blood. A shot of whisky for example is enough to rate a jail sentence. Three glasses of beer does the same.

A Swede doesn't have to be involved in an accident to be apprehended. A Stockholm public prosecutor, Sten Warholm, cites the case of a truck driver, who hadn't turned on his lights after dark. The police tracked him for about two miles and hailed the driver over to the side of the road. It was discovered he had an alcoholic percentage in his blood stream 100 per cent over the limit.

"It has made the roads safer for everyone," says Warholm. The law applies to everyone. A court judge must give a man a jail term if guilty. "Because people know the jail term is compulsory, they are not as likely to drink while driving," says Warholm.

"A bribe is a rarity," he added.

Swedes have tried to solve the problem of drinking and driving in different ways. Some drinkers hire a chauffeur to drive them home after the party. Many of these chauffeurs are off-duty policemen, trying to earn a few extra kronor. This job is known as the "Car Pilots Service" in Stockholm.

Livestock Men Expect Meat Price to Raise

By SAM DAWSON

DENVER (AP)—The men who have steaks, bacon and lamb chops still on the hoof are feeling better today. But they are keeping a wary eye on the life expectancy of the general good times as well as on the livestock markets.

With good times have come some of the meat industry's best friends: The big baby crops, the spreading custom of backyard grilling of steaks, the popularity of the hamburger with the young, the upgrading of consumer buying and increased meat consumption.

Livestock men are counting on the prices they get firming up a little more after their long drop. But they know that full paychecks and a feeling of prosperity throughout the land has a lot to do with boosting meat consumption to record highs.

They also know that good times determines to a large extent which of their individual meat products gets the public's money. The housewife switches quickly from expensive to cheap cuts, or even to meat substitutes when pay checks shrink or stop altogether for a while.

Cattlemen feel that the long drought is breaking, especially on the ranges to the north of here. Hog feeders in the Midwest have perked up since prices bounced back some from their lows. Sheepmen out here hope for firm prices on lambs, and also count on the government's new incentive payments on wool.

There's going to be plenty of meat going to market this fall. But people have been eating all that's offered, points out Radford Hall, executive secretary of the American National Cattlemen's Assn. There are no big inventories in storage. The cattlemen's troubles stem from high production pushing prices to the weak side, from rising costs, and above all from drought in most regions to the south of here.

Despite the drought inroads the number of cattle in the nation has been growing. There are around 97½ million head, some 60 million of them beef cattle, both record highs. The association estimates more than 13 billion pounds of beef will be eaten by Americans this year, some 82 pounds per capita.

do they stir themselves with so much vigor."

Neither Whistler nor Glisson, of course, knew the cause of rickets or how to prevent it. Now, fortunately, we know that cod liver oil or other sources of Vitamin D can prevent the appearance of this formerly widespread and disabling cause of illness in children.

Children who are exposed to enough sunlight make their own supply of vitamin D and, of course, do not need extras. In the long winter months of short sunshine Vitamin D often needs to be added to the diet in order to avoid rickets.

Washington Merry-Go-Round--

Soil Bank Gyration Stir Confusion

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—City folks sometimes wonder why the farmer is confused, bewildered, and irate. The manner in which the man who is supposed to help the farmers, Ezra Taft Benson, backtracked, flip-flopped and reversed himself on the question of the soil bank illustrates one reason why.

Here is the record of how the Secretary of Agriculture has gyrated on what has been heralded as the key to the Eisenhower farm policy:

Flip-Flop No. 1—Benson's department sent official letters to Congress July 27 flatly vetoing the so-called soil bank as impractical and too expensive. (It was originated by Henry Wallace in New Deal days.)

Flip-Flop No. 2—President Eisenhower proposed the soil bank in his State of the Union message, Jan. 5.

Flip-Flop No. 3—Despite previous opposition, Benson chided Congress in March and April for being slow in passing the soil-bank program. "Time is of the essence," he said on March 23. "The soil-bank proposal has been before Congress for three months, even though the President urged quick action," he said on April 5.

Flip-Flop No. 4—On May 29, as Eisenhower signed the soil-bank bill, Benson announced: "We are moving immediately to put the soil-bank program into effect. Initial procedures have already gone out. The needed contract forms have already been discussed with state farmer-committeemen."

Flip-Flop No. 5—At a jam-packed press conference May 31, Benson further announced that price-supported crops could be made for them under the soil-bank program. This was adoption of the Henry Wallace plow-up program which Benson has repeatedly ridiculed.

Benson further explained that farmers were to call at local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees and enter into "agreements with committees" for soil-bank payments.

Flip-Flop No. 6—Next day, farmers reading Benson's advice in the newspapers, called at ASC committees, found no contracts to make out, no instructions as to whether they were qualified to participate. Irate farmers then fired back at Washington. Farm-area newspapers also began querying Benson's office. It then developed that Agriculture Department attorneys were still studying the law. It would be two or more weeks, it was stated, before instructions would go to local farm committees.

This brought farm-belt protests wanting to know why Benson had not been preparing for the soil-bank program while he chided Congress for being slow.

Flip-Flop No. 7—Speaking in Beaver Dam, Wis., on June 4, Benson stated that farmers who lose crops because of drought and flood would get no soil-bank payments. The program, he said, was to be a cut-back program.

This brought an immediate protest from Congressman Cliff Hope of Kansas, a leading Republican. He called the White House privately, demanded that Benson reverse himself. A delegation also descended on the White House, including Hope, Senators Carlson and Schoepfer of Kansas, Hill from drought-stricken Colorado, and Lovre of South Dakota—all Republicans. They laid it on the line in no uncertain terms that Benson would have to flip-flop again and make soil-bank payments in drought-flood areas.

This took place immediately before the President became ill.

Flip-Flop No. 8—On June 8 Benson was called to the White House. This was on the day Eisenhower was rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation. He did not see Benson. But White House aides are now accustomed to assuming considerable prerogative for Ike. They told Benson he would have to reverse himself. Later that day he did. He issued a statement that payments of $6 per acre would be made for wheat lost through drought, wind, or flood. Benson did not see the press that day, and his undersecretary, True D. Morse, would not admit there had been a reversal.

"I guess we know a little bit more about the law than we did before," was all he had to say.

Flip-Flop No. 9—This was a press conference called by Benson to explain there had been no flip-flop.

It was rather a pathetic ceremony. In a way you felt sorry for Benson. Newsmen covering the Agriculture Department had received so many conflicting statements that some were reluctant to attend the conference. To insure attendance, a press release was prepared, and Agriculture aides made it clear they would distribute it only inside the conference room. It turned out to be an innocuous statement about the number of vacationists expected to visit the national forests this summer.

Newsmen had made an advance agreement not to ask Benson whether he had reversed himself on drought payments. They knew he expected to be asked, so they didn't ask him. After some awkward hemming and hawing, Benson finally took the initiative and referred to press statements that he had reversed himself.

"Of course that has not been done," he said. He explained that when he spoke at Beaver Dam the lawyers were still interpreting the law, so he couldn't have reversed himself on drought payments. But he gave no explanation as to why he said at Beaver Dam there would be no drought payments.

Note—Secretary Benson was in good company when it comes to flip-flops. His cabinet colleague, John Foster Dulles, recently flip-flopped on broadening the political and economic powers of NATO, cabinet colleague Brownell flip-flopped on civil rights, while his chief, Mr. Eisenhower expressed sympathy for neutral nations on one day, then issued a statement completely reversing himself the next.

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Imprisoned in body, but free in spirit—that was the experience of the Apostle Paul.

The thrilling experience in the prison at Philippi (Acts 16), with its midnight earthquake and its opened bars, was but a part of his actual imprisonment. He was a prisoner at Rome for a long period, but, considering much of the brutality of Roman discipline, a privileged prisoner, in detention in his own house. (Acts 28:16).

He was a prisoner on board ship, on his way to Rome, when the shipwreck described in Acts 27 occurred; and Paul became the real commander, emerging above both the captain of the ship and the Roman centurion. That was the Christian Paul, the indomitable man of the free spirit.

But apart from actual detention, Paul in many ways was not a free agent. His course was set by persecution, and by the course of events, it was evidence of the masterful free spirit that he turned everything to advantage, making the most outwardly discouraging circumstances the occasions and scenes of Christian triumph.

In Ephesus, where a great riot raged over him and his companions

Sunday Morn Address By William Hammond At First Methodist

In the absence of the pastor of the First Methodist Church, William Hammond will bring an address next Sunday morning at the service of worship. His subject will be "Builders of the Kingdom." Hammond is an honor student in Central Missouri State College, has won honors in debate, and is president of the college Y.M.C.A. He will leave next week to attend summer school at McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

Dr. Elmer L. Hobbs, pastor of First Methodist, and Mrs. Hobbs left the first of the week for a month's vacation. While gone they will attend the Southwest Missionary Conference at Mt. Sequoyia where Dr. Hobbs will be on the program. This is an interdenominational conference of missionary workers. From there Dr. and Mrs. Hobbs will go to New Orleans to attend the Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church. Before returning home they will visit several places in Florida.

Imprisoned in body, but free in spirit—that was the experience of the Apostle Paul.

The thrilling experience in the prison at Philippi (Acts 16), with its midnight earthquake and its opened bars, was but a part of his actual imprisonment. He was a prisoner at Rome for a long period, but, considering much of the brutality of Roman discipline, a privileged prisoner, in detention in his own house. (Acts 28:16).

He was a prisoner on board ship, on his way to Rome, when the shipwreck described in Acts 27 occurred; and Paul became the real commander, emerging above both the captain of the ship and the Roman centurion. That was the Christian Paul, the indomitable man of the free spirit.

But apart from actual detention, Paul in many ways was not a free agent. His course was set by persecution, and by the course of events, it was evidence of the masterful free spirit that he turned everything to advantage, making the most outwardly discouraging circumstances the occasions and scenes of Christian triumph.

Third Time Since 1900— Harshman and Johnson Pitch One Hit Game, Chicago Wins

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
In 1953, Jack Harshman gave his wife a catcher's mitt for Christmas. He wanted to practice all he could before making his bid as a major league pitcher the next spring, and after seven futile years as a first baseman, they both figured he had a lot of catching up to do.

Yesterday, he caught up with the record book.

Only twice since 1900 had major league pitchers battled each other with one-hitters in one game. Yesterday, the third such game went into the books — and Harshman won it 1-0 for the Chicago White Sox against Baltimore's Connie Johnson and George Zverink.

The victory left the second place Sox five games behind the American League leading New York Yankees, who open a four-game series in Chicago's Comiskey Park tonight after an open date yesterday. In Thursday's other games Cleveland beat Boston and Tom Brewer's jinx 5-0 behind Early Wynn's four-hitter, and Kansas City slammed Washington back into the cellar 15-6.

In the National, Milwaukee's Braves won their sixth straight under new Manager Fred Haney and retained first place with a 7-2 job on Pittsburgh's slumping Pirates. Brooklyn held on to second in the only other game played, beating St. Louis 9-3 as Roy Campanella hit a pair of three-run homers, his second tying it in a winning four-run ninth inning rally with two out.

Rain postponed Chicago at New York in the only other game scheduled.

Harshman, a three-time loser as a first baseman with the New York Giants, has won only four of eight decisions with the White Sox this season. But three have been beats. He beat Cleveland and Herb Score 1-0 in a double two-hitter in his first start April 19, and he beat Washington 7-0 on four hits June 16. He gave seven hits in the other victory, edging Baltimore 3-2.

The only hit the 28-year-old southpaw allowed yesterday was a seventh-inning double by Gus Triandos. But Harshman, who has a string of 20 scoreless innings going, nailed him at third after fielding Hal Smith's attempted sacrifice.

In all, Harshman — who was 14-8 and fanned 16 in one game in his 1954 debut with the White Sox, and 11-7 last season — faced 32 men, walking four and striking out four.

The only White Sox hit off Johnson, who went to Baltimore from Chicago last month, was a first-inning double by Nellie Fox. But it followed a leadoff walk to Jim Rivera, who then stole second. Johnson, who fanned seven, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

It was the first double one-hitter since Bobby Cain and the St. Louis Browns — Baltimore's predecessors in the AL — beat Bob Feller and Cleveland 1-0 April 23, 1952. The winning run was scored in the first inning of that one, too, with Marty Marion, now White Sox field boss, driving it in as player-manager of the Browns.

Campanella's second homer, off reliever Murry Dickson, overshadowed Don Zimmer's single that brought the winning run home in the ninth to beat the Cards. The big Dodger catcher apparently ended his slump with the shot. He had hit only one homer in six weeks and was dropped to eighth in the batting order because of a .207 average.

Stan Musial homered twice for the fourth-place Cards, with a man on each time, and with Al Dark had four hits in five trips. Musial now is batting .321 and Dark .516 since coming to the Cards from the Giants last week.

Zimmer had three hits and two RBIs after replacing shortstop Peevée Reese who was knocked dizzy but otherwise apparently uninjured in a first-inning double-play.

Del Rice and Danny O'Connell combined for seven of Milwaukee's 13 hits, with O'Connell driving four runs as Bob Buhl won his seventh. Ron Kline lost his sixth as the Pirates dropped their sixth straight.

Cleveland handed Brewer his second defeat, breaking his eight-game winning streak and beating the young right-hander for the first time since May 1, 1955. He had beaten them seven times in the span. Two of the hits off Wynn, now 7-4, were bunt singles by Jim Piersall.

Joe DeMaestri and Gus Zernial each hit two-run homers, for the A's, who had 15 hits. Harmon Killebrew hit a grand-slammer for the Senators.

Hundley Scores Again

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — West Virginia's clowning basketball star, Hot Rod Hundley, has proved his prowess in another field of sports.

Hundley teamed with Jack Egnor of Huntington to win the month-long table tennis tournament at the WVU student union. Egnor is a brother of television's Virginia Ruth Egnor, better known as Dagmar.

Stan Musial Is Considering Ending Career

NEW YORK (AP) — A combination of circumstances has discouraged Stan Musial to such an extent that he seriously is thinking of quitting baseball at the end of the season.

Although the St. Louis Cardinals' all-time great would not comment it has been learned from present and former teammates that the National League's greatest player of his generation is depressed over recent events ranging from the trading of his closest friend Red Schoendienst to his shift from the outfield to first base.

Another major hurt, it has been learned, stemmed from reports prior to the June 15 trading deadline of a player transaction between the Cardinals and Philadelphia involving Musial and Robin Roberts, the Phillies' ace right-hander.

This has been denied by Frank Lane, Cardinals' dynamic general manager. Lane, who has a reputation for truthfulness and integrity, undoubtedly made no serious effort to peddle St. Louis' No. 1 citizen but those rumors have made Musial feel insecure for the first time in his long tenure with the Cardinals.

One who knows this innately modest star well said when Stan first read the report in a St. Louis paper of the possibility of his being traded, Musial became noticeably upset. It was not until the trading deadline had passed that he became his usual smiling, relaxed self.

The informant stressed that Musial's feeling in no way reflected on Fred Hutchinson whom he regards as a fine manager and a gentleman. Although he had said he would never again switch from the outfield to first base he agreed to do that when Hutchinson told him frankly he no longer could do the things he used to do in the outfield and would be a greater asset to the club at first base. It is not easy to quit when you're earning $80,000 a year but this factor will not act as a deterrent to the National League's highest salaried star once he makes up his mind. Stan is financially secure thanks to his healthy earnings from baseball, his restaurant and banking businesses and other wise investments.

Marlene Hagge Leads Ladies PGA Tourney

DETROIT (AP)—Shapely Marlene Bauer Hagge, with a record-breaking 69 in the opening round, held a two-stroke lead today over 24 other women pros going into the second round of the Ladies PGA tournament.

In second place, with 71, is veteran Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., who would rather win this tournament above all others. The LPGA crown is the only one that has escaped the rediated shot-maker.

The 72-hole medal play duel will continue through Sunday over the 6,415-yard layout.

Miss Hagge sliced two strokes off the Forest Lake Country Club's women's record with her six-under-par 69.

The diminutive Asheville, N.C., stylist, winner of the last two tournaments on the women's pro circuit, carded five birdies and an eagle two. She came home with a 34-35 round to put up against the regulation 36-39 figure.

In third place, with a two-under-par 73 in the opening action is Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis.

Knotted in fourth place with 74's were veterans Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Mickey Wright of San Diego, Gloria Fecht of Whittier, Calif.; and Marilyn Smith of Bloomfield, a Detroit suburb.

John Lacey is the new trainer for North Carolina's football team. He was assistant trainer at Maryland for five years.

The Johnstown Johnnies of the Class A Eastern League are connected with the New York Giants.

In 234 innings in 1955, Brooklyn's Don Newcombe issued only one intentional base on balls.

FINALLY MADE IT—Rocky Marciano, who started off with ambitions of being a Cubs' catcher, finally made it to Chicago with a bat. The Rock took a good cut during a Police Athletic League benefit game in which he participated at a local playground—not Wrigley Field.

Calhoun-Vaughn Fight Tonight in The Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — How good is Rory Calhoun? The answer may be found tonight when the unbeaten youngster from White Plains, N. Y., boxes more experienced Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles in Madison Square Garden.

The 21-year-old Calhoun has a glittering record of 21-0 with 11 knockouts.

Calhoun's record doesn't include men who have fought such high ranked scrappers as Vaughn has met in his 41 bouts. Although Willie's record is an ordinary 26-11-4, he went 10 rounds with Bobo Olson, losing a decision, and stopped Garth Panther and Moses Ward.

Network radio and television (NBC) will cover the scrap, starting at 8 p. m. (CST.)

Anything Goes in Sucker Fishing

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Fishing from a tree or a stepladder seems most unorthodox except down in Missouri's Ozarks where almost anything goes when snagging for suckers.

Suckers, like other nongame fish, may be taken in Missouri anytime of the year using a hook and line. But standard equipment during a 30-day special season is a casting outfit with a treble hook and a heavy sinker. The method: flip out the hook and retrieve it in short jerks. Sooner or later, one of the prongs snags a sucker and then a boiling battle is on.

That's where the stepladders and trees come in. For each angler seems to have an unusual way of setting himself up as he fishes for the limit.

Coe, Jackson Post Golf Tourney Wins

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Two former champions were wondering today if their "extra hole number" was coming up in the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament.

Defending champion Jim Jackson of St. Louis, winner of the past two Trans tourneys, and three-time titlist Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City escaped marathon endeavors as they posted victories in yesterday's second round of this prestige-laden tournament.

Coe rallied for a 5 and 4 decision over Keith Alexander of Boulder, Colo.

Jackson's job was a 1 up verdict over veteran Jack Malloy of Oklahoma City.

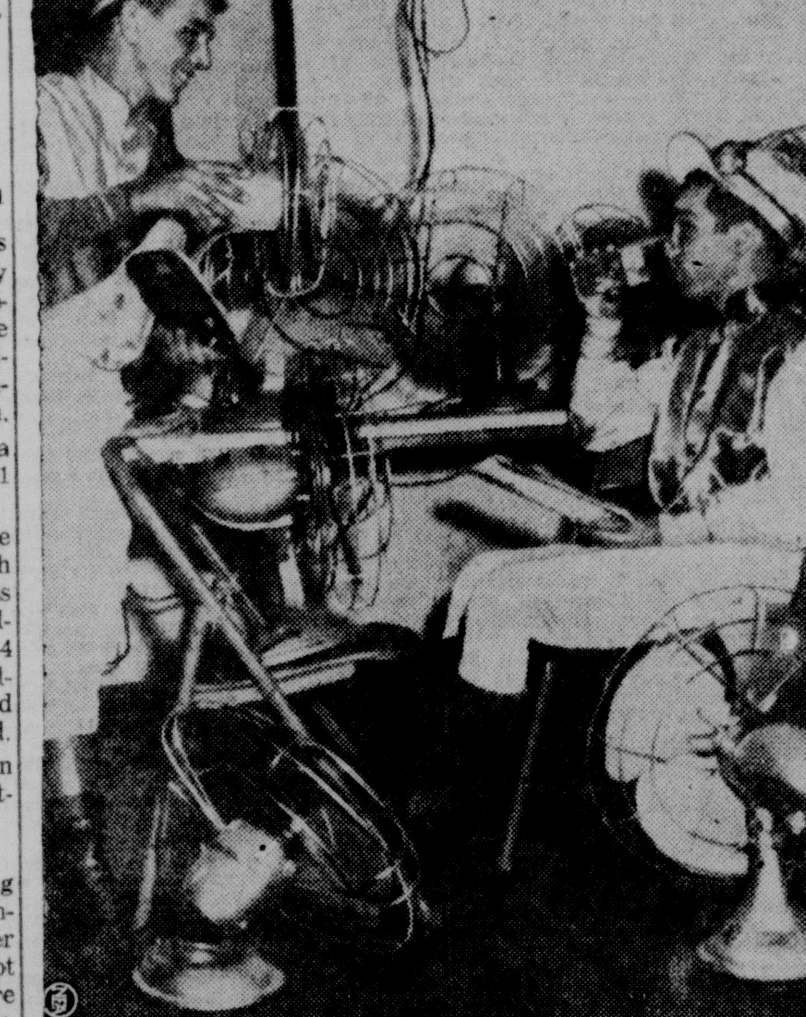

Coe and Jackson advanced into today's third round and it set up a possibility of a head-to-head tussle in Sunday's 36-hole championship match over the 6,852-yard par 35-67 Oklahoma City golf and country club course.

Coe today went against Don Sechrist, St. Joseph, Mo., a polio-crippled member of the Oklahoma A&M golf team. And, Jackson found himself facing Art Hall of Tulsa, another Oklahoma Aggie.

Jim English, Topeka, Kan., the 1950 Trans champion; Rex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo, runner-up the past two years; and Bob Astleford, the Nebraska state champion were still around to contest any claims to the 53rd championship of the Trans-Mississippi tournament.

Extra hole winners in yesterday's second round included Sig Harpman Jr., Oklahoma City; Richard Norville, also of the host course; and Jim Hisey of Houston.

Harpman used a par 5 on the

Sedalia A's Play Salisbury Team Here Tonight

The Sedalia Athletics will shoot for victory number six this evening when they tangle with the hustling Salisbury Merchants at 8 o'clock under the lights at Liberty Park.

Rated as one of the finest semi-pro aggregations in Central Missouri by Vernon Kennedy, manager of the Brookfield B-J team, the Merchants will come to Sedalia with a season record of 6 wins and 2 losses thus far.

Manager Buddy Thomas stated that he will announce his starting pitcher at game time, choosing from Bobby Brown, Joe Imhauser, Skip Schulz, Bill Arnold, and Gene Richardson.

The Athletics will encounter another fine semi-pro team when they meet the Moberly Palstaffs Tuesday night, June 26, at Liberty Park.

Campanella Hits Home Runs, Gets Rid of Slump

BROOKLYN (AP)—Roy Campanella is troubled no more.

The genial Brooklyn catcher snapped out of the worst batting slump of his career last night when he hit two home runs, good for six runs, in the world champions' 9-8 victory over St. Louis.

To put it mildly, Campy was jubilant.

"Thank God, I'm out of that," he said as teammates thumped his broad back in the Dodger dressing room. His second homer, a three-run blast off 40-year old Murry Dickson, tied the score in the ninth.

Don Zimmer delivered the game winning single a few minutes later but his vital blow was almost forgotten in the jubilation over Campanella's hitting. His first homer with two on came in the second inning off Herm Wehmeier.

"I guess I just ran out of outs," said Campy who matched his June RBI production with the six runs batted in. The homers were his first since June 9 and his first in chummy Ebbets Field since April 29. He raised his batting average seven points to .214 and boosted his RBIs to 31 in 48 games—still a long way from the performances that won the nearly 35-year old receiver the National League's most valuable player award three times.

The late Charlie Kutsinger won two Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel. He scored with Anchors Aweigh in 1931 and with War Admiral in 1937.

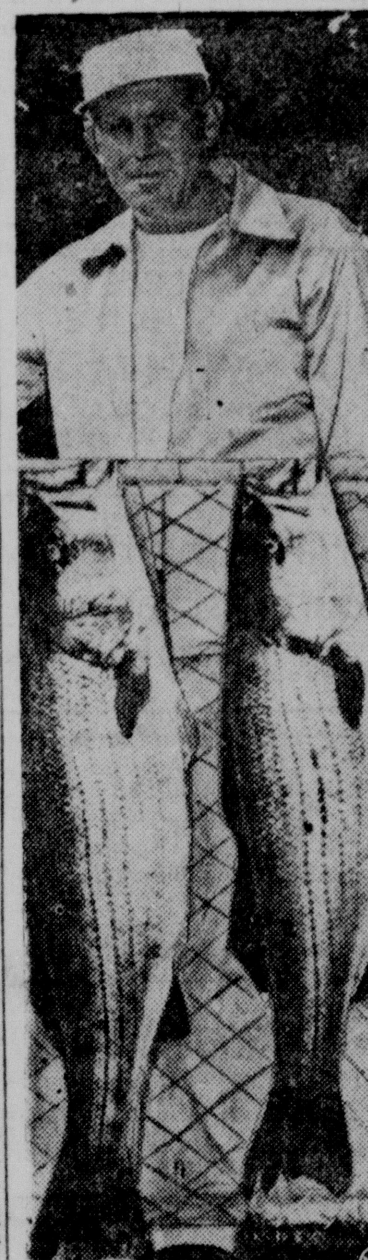

St. Paul Wins Over Wichita in Slugfest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
St. Paul powered six home runs and Wichita hammered out three Thursday night in an American Assn. slugfest won by St. Paul, 9-7.

Charleston whipped Omaha, 4-1, in the night's only other game, called at the end of the sixth to permit Omaha to catch a train for Louisville.

Denver's date at Louisville was washed out by rain as was Minneapolis' game at Indianapolis. Bob Lillis and Granny Gladstone each socked a pair of homers for St. Paul, and Bob Hazle walloped two out of the park for Wichita. The Saints rolled to a 3-0 lead on homers and stayed in front all the way.

Wichita shelled Karl Spooner from the mound in the third. Reliever Glenn McMinn pitched until the ninth and got credit for the victory.

US Forces Are Political Aim Of Iceland

REYKAJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's No. 2 political party today broadened its election campaign fire to include the island's Communists as well as U.S. forces stationed at its big NATO air base.

The move came two days before national parliamentary elections which may chart the strategically located island's future role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The organ of the second-ranking progressive party declared Iceland's Communists "serve a foreign power," and said "it is a matter of honor" that the voters reject them.

It appeared highly likely the Icelanders would do just that. The Communists held only 5 of the 35 seats in the lower House of the last Parliament, and there has been no indication that their following has increased.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Kristinn Gudmundsson, a progressive leader, asserted Iceland is determined to get rid of U.S. troops. He said the results of the election will not alter that position.

Gudmundsson indicated that he favored "mothballing" the U.S.-manned NATO Air Base on the Icelandic Peninsula of Keflavik. He said the United States wants a base on Iceland to "protect its own security," but this is not security for Iceland.

"We were not eager to be a member of NATO," the foreign minister said, "and we were promised it would be unnecessary for us to have foreign troops here. That was in 1949 and all we want is to go back to the status quo of that time."

He declared Iceland otherwise will abide by its NATO obligations. Since the island republic has no armed forces, the site of the Keflavik base and radar stations also manned by American troops have been Iceland's chief contribution to the Atlantic defense setup.

NATO leaders consider Keflavik, almost midway between Moscow and New York, a key warning point in the North Atlantic network of anti-Soviet defenses.

Presidents From Ohio
NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Ohio, which prides itself as a mother of presidents, rarely recalls one native son who made the grade. Edward James Royce became president of Liberia, not of the United States.

Seven native Ohioans became U.S. chief executives—Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding.

Royce was born in Newark, Ohio, Feb. 3, 1815. He worked as a teacher, shopkeeper and sheep trader before sailing for Africa in 1846. There, in Liberia, he became a leading merchant and one of the small coastal republic's richest men.

His countrymen objected to terms of the loan. In the dispute Royce attempted to extend his two-year presidential term by edict.

The people revolted, overpowered the Royce camp, deposed and imprisoned him. Called to stand trial before the nation's supreme court, Royce escaped in a native canoe but drowned while trying to reach an English steamer anchored off shore.

Speaks to British Society—

Truman Warns Britain, US Against New Soviet Policy

LONDON (AP)—Harry Truman warned Britain and the United States last night not to let the "silver illusions of election years" blind them to the common peril he said they still face from the Communists.

Speaking at a dinner of the pilgrims, a British-American friendship society, the former U.S. president cautioned that other alliances of the two English-speaking nations "are less effective, in their mutual benefit, if Britain and America should get at cross purposes."

Truman conceded that "like most other nations we are more impelled to unity by common danger than by common aspirations."

But "those who look candidly and honestly at the world about us," he continued, "must see that that common danger has rarely been greater, though it has often been more strident and spectacular. There is plenty to pull us soberly together on common appraisals and policies."

He did not mention Russia by name, but he left no doubt he was referring to the revamped post-Stalin foreign policy trumpeted recently by the Kremlin.

"I am not prepared," he said, "to throw away all we have learned by hard experience—to believe all who claim to have been converted have in fact cast out the old Adam."

He took considerable pains to counteract any British concern over effects the U.S. election campaign might have on American foreign policy.

He said countries which have free elections in election years "behave somewhat as primitive peoples do at the time of the full moon." And he added that "one or another of the Western Democracies seem to have an election every year, and this usually has an upsetting effect on our international conferences."

But he warned: "Even when we are moonstruck by the silver illusions of election years, we ought to bear in mind that if we consume most of what we produce, we will not be able to stand up against these nations who work incessantly to increase their power—their power to threaten, their power to resist, to overawe and absorb their neighbors, and their power to strike with force of arms."

"So I would urge that—out of common prudence—you and we and all our friends and associates should not get careless about our strength or our unity. I would hope that both our countries would continue to produce men who would keep our views and acts in close harmony."

Truman drew loud applause when he said, "I am very happy today because dispatches from home show our President is well on his way to recovery."

In a toast to the American guest of honor, the Earl of Halifax, wartime British envoy to Washington and president of the Pilgrims, said:

"In homely language, Mr. Truman, you are the sort of person we would all be happy to go tiger hunting with."

Hot Weather May Break For Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
June's steady diet of hot and humid weather appeared breaking in northern sections of the Midwest today. But not much relief was in sight immediately for other areas in the Eastern half of the country.

Cooler air continued moving eastward across the Northern Plains during the night. It was expected to extend over the Dakotas southward to Oklahoma and over the northern part of the Mississippi Valley from Minnesota southward to Missouri.

The hot, humid weather yesterday blanketed most of the Southern three quarters of the country.

from the Plains eastward. Temperatures of above 100 were reported in the Plains as far as eastern Nebraska while the 105 marks at Salina and Russell, Kan., were higher than most readings in the Southwest. Although temperatures were in the 60s and 70s from Maine to Delaware, Maryland and northern Virginia, the weather was uncomfortable because of the extreme high humidity along the Eastern seaboard.

There were widely scattered showers again today east of the Rockies. Thundershowers were heaviest in sections of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys. Rainfall at St. Cloud, Minn., measured nearly 2½ inches in six hours last night. Heavy rain also fell in parts of the Central Plains while falls were light in most of the Northern Plains.

Mostly fair weather prevailed west of the Continental Divide except for showers in the northern third of the region.

Pushes Defense Measure

A $35 Billion Bill is 'Vital' To US Air Rule

WASHINGTON, June 21 (P)—Sen. Chavez (D-NM) told the Senate today the best way of "maintaining our air superiority over" Soviet Russia is to approve a defense bill carrying nearly 35 billion dollars.

"We must not gamble on the security of our way of life," he said in opening a Democratic drive to add more than a billion dollars to the Air Force funds asked by President Eisenhower.

Chavez is floor manager of the huge defense money bill which now includes some $1,300,000,000 more than the House voted for the Army, Navy, Air Force and other defense agencies.

Sees Smaller Boost for AF

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California told newsmen he expected the Senate to approve a smaller 500 million increase for the Air Force.

Despite the big Air Force increases, the Senate bill is only 836 millions above the Eisenhower budget because cutbacks were made in other requests.

The 500-million-dollar Air Force increase was proposed by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and its co-sponsors include Sens. Byrd (D-Va.), Ellender (D-La.) and Holland (D-Fla.).

The proposals for this lesser amount came after the billion-plus increase was voted for the Air Force by the Senate appropriations Committee Monday on a 13-12 vote.

Seek Added Bomber Output

Chavez said 800 millions of the Air Force increase he is seeking would be used to produce additional new jet bombers and fighters, 200 millions for additional bases, 100 millions to step up research on missiles and other new weapons, 40 million for maintenance and operations and 20 millions for additional personnel to man six additional wings as the 137-wing goal is attained.

Marshall, Boonville Are Latest to Bid For Research Center

At least seven Missouri cities are in with bids for the $18,000,000 federal animal disease research center.

The latest to make application for the project are Marshall and Boonville. Previously Columbia, Jefferson City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Fulton and Chillicothe had made bids for the center.

Marshall's Chamber of Commerce pointed out the supply of water and utilities available; Marshall's location with respect to the school of veterinary medicine at Columbia and sites available. It also pointed out the Marshall Industrial Development Corp. would assist in building new homes for employees.

Boonville, forwarded its application Wednesday.

Fort Smith Offers Water to Two Towns

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 21—City officials here have offered two townships of water to drought-stricken cities in Oklahoma and Missouri.

City Commissioner Hugh Brewer said there is one stipulation—the Frisco and Missouri Pacific railroads must agree to deliver the water to Ardmore, Okla. and Bethany, Mo.

Brewer said the city is awaiting replies from both railroads. He said neither Ardmore nor Bethany had been contacted directly on the offer.

There was no specific amount of water in mind, Brewer said, just two townships.

This city has two lakes that are "spilling over," Brewer said. One of the lakes recently completed will be named at dedication ceremonies Sunday.

The total of water now in both lakes is reportedly enough for Fort Smith's needs for the next 3½ years.

Gas Lobbyist Checked Ike's Stand on Bill

Testifies on Issue To Special Senate Probe Committee

WASHINGTON, June 21—A lobbyist against the natural gas bill told senators today he went to the White House early this year to check on how the administration stood on the issue.

The testimony, to the special Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, came from J. E. Heyke, president of the Brooklyn Union Gas Co., and chairman of the Council of Local Gas Companies.

Sought Check by Adams

Heyke said he called on Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower, to check on reports that the administration was backing the bill.

The legislation, to free natural gas producers from direct federal controls, was passed later by Congress. However, Eisenhower vetoed it with a statement saying that while he approved its objectives, the activities of some of its oil-gas industry supporters was "highly questionable."

Heyke said he had told Adams of the reports the administration was behind the bill, and further told him that if these reports were not true, they should be refuted.

As for any results from his talk with Adams, Heyke said "I would not say there were any."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) asked Heyke if he regarded the visit to Adams as lobbying.

Could Term Adams Lobbyist

"No, not in the narrow terms," Heyke replied. He added that any such activity could be regarded as lobbying in the broadest sense.

McClellan said "I see nothing wrong with it" but the committee's job is to "lay bare the practices that have developed in this field" to see whether they should be regulated or approved under the constitutional right of petition.

Weatherman Out on Limb—Sees Hotter, Drier Weather Than Normal for All Summer

KANSAS CITY, June 21—The weatherman went out on a limb today just as he has for the past four years on the first day of summer.

H. L. Jacobson, chief weatherman here, says Missouri and Kansas can expect hotter and dryer weather than normal for the rest of the summer.

For the past four years he has hit his summer advent prognosis pretty well on the nose.

Points To High Pressure Ridge

Without going too far into such things as flow lines, pressure, tendencies, etc., Jacobson points to what he calls the Rocky Mountain sky block.

Ike Gets Walking Activity

Day's Business Includes Report On His Cabinet

WASHINGTON, June 21 (P)—President Eisenhower took a short walk out of his hospital room today, for the first time since his June 9 operation.

He also transacted 45 minutes of White House business with staff members.

Accepts McLeish Resignation

Among other actions, Eisenhower accepted—with no expression of regret—the resignation of Robert B. McLeish, who quit as head of the Farmers Home Administration after being accused at a Senate committee hearing of heavy drinking.

The President did say in a letter to McLeish, who has denied excessive drinking, that his agency has done a good deal for the benefit of low income farmers.

"You have my best wishes for your health and happiness in the years ahead," the President added.

Eisenhower walked today from his Walter Reed Hospital bed into the corridor outside his room. There he sat in an armless chair, behind a nurse's desk, chatting with his wife and doctors for about 20 minutes before walking back to his bed. All told, he walked some 80 feet and did so without support.

Adams Reports on Cabinet

The President received from his chief aide, Sherman Adams, a report on this morning's Cabinet meeting, held at the White House with Vice President Nixon presiding. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the subject of politics—particularly the President's second term plans—did not come up.

Hagerty denied a published report (Scripps-Howard) that the word has been passed from the hospital to White House officials that the President will stand by his Feb. 29 decision to seek reelection.

Senate Confirms Missouri Postmasters

WASHINGTON (P)—The Senate has confirmed the following nominations for postmasterships in Missouri:

Robert E. Hock, Ft. Leonard Wood; Wilma M. Henneke, Leslie; Joseph A. Wallenburn, Ottumwa; and James W. Buzzard, Seneca.

Weatherman Out on Limb—Sees Hotter, Drier Weather Than Normal for All Summer

KANSAS CITY, June 21—The weatherman went out on a limb today just as he has for the past four years on the first day of summer.

H. L. Jacobson, chief weatherman here, says Missouri and Kansas can expect hotter and dryer weather than normal for the rest of the summer.

For the past four years he has hit his summer advent prognosis pretty well on the nose.

Points To High Pressure Ridge

Without going too far into such things as flow lines, pressure, tendencies, etc., Jacobson points to what he calls the Rocky Mountain sky block.

In simple terms this sky block is just a rigid ridge of high pressure aloft at about 10,000 feet. So rugged and substantial is this ridge that storms systems moving across the country from west to east must deviate to get around it. Storm systems that would normally cross this area are shunted to the north and east.

Middlewest to Be Hot, Dry

The result, Jacobson says, will be moist and cool weather for the north and east sections of the nation, but hot and dry in the Middle-west. He sees no heavy rains for the summer in this area.

Although Jacobson says his long range prediction has nothing to do with it, the Weather Bureau is installing air conditioning equipment in the regional weather headquarters here.

Sedalian Wins Missouri's Wool Fashions Contest Held Here

Sedalia scored again in the state "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest when Mary Lou Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy L. Mitchell, 1101 West 16th, won first in the senior division. Mary Lou, a tall and attractive brunette, was stunning in a dress of yellow Botany wool crepe fashioned with draped bodice, darted midriff, long sleeves and flared skirt. The dress was fully lined with net and taffeta and was made by a Vogue pattern changed a lot by Mary Lou's own original ideas. With it she wore a large yellow straw hat, white gloves, black patent leather purse and shoes. A graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, Mary Lou is now attending the University of Missouri at Columbia where she entered the district contest and won her right to compete in the state contest being held in her own home town. She has been sewing seven years.

The junior division winner was Ethelyn Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Thorne, Purdin, who wore a navy and white check Botany wool dress, princess style, with detachable white collar and a large red bow. It was fashioned with a high belt in front centered with a button and the long sleeves had buttons on the cuffs. She wore a pert little navy hat with a feather, navy shoes and purse and white gloves. Ethelyn is blond with her short hair cut with palm leaf bangs. She is a senior in high school and has been a 4-H member for eight years.

Mary Lou and Ethelyn each received the grand prize in their division which is a free trip to the National Fashion Show in Las Vegas, Nevada, in January, 1957. The transportation for the trip is furnished by F. W. Woolworth Co., the meals and hotel come from the proceeds of "Miss Meal Ticket," and the lamb was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pemberton which was sold at the sale Thursday morning.

The second place winner in the senior division was Irene Bunton of Liberal, from the Springfield district. Irene wore a dress of moss green wool crepe with Peter Pan collar and a brown rose at the neckline. The dress was made with long sleeves, belted at the waist and her hat and accessories were in shades of brown and beige. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunton, farmers, near Liberal, and has lived on the farm all of her life. She learned to sew through 4-H work and high school and has been sewing nine years. She is also a member of the Future Homemakers and has won the following awards, home economics medal two years, 4-H, American Royal, 4-H Week, county dress prize and many ribbons, district dress review, sewing demonstration and this is her third year in the wool contest.

Joint Conferees Give Final Passage To Huge Road Bill

Calls for $32.9 Billion in Hiway Construction; Financing to Come From Higher Taxes on Road Items

WASHINGTON, June 21—House-Senate conference committees finished their work today on the huge highway bill and everything was set for it to become law by July 1. It is a $32,900,000,000 project.

Leaders of the conferees issued exultant statements:

"The greatest public works program in the history of the world," Sen. Chavez (D-NM) called it. He added:

"It will be a wonderful thing for our economy and it will bring untold benefits to the American people."

See House, Senate Approval

Both the House and Senate are expected to approve the conferees' report next week, and President Eisenhower is similarly expected to sign it at once. There never has been much quarrel over the need of better highways, but progress has lagged because of disputes over financing and lesser details.

The bill provides for new federal taxes amounting to $14,800,000,000 during the 16 years the program is to run. This money would be combined with taxes already levied on highway users to raise the total needed.

Federal Gas Tax Hike

Chief among the new revenue raisers will be a one-cent-per-gallon increase in the present two-cent federal tax on gasoline. Other new taxes apply to tires, tread rubber, fuels other than gasoline, trucks, buses and trailers.

The conferees on the tax sections of the bill restored the revenue figure to $14,800,000,000 voted by the House instead of $14,500,000,000 as passed by the Senate.

They did this by accepting the House provision on a new annual use tax to be put on heavy trucks. This provision applies the tax at the rate of $1.50 per 1,000 pounds on the full weight of each vehicle weighing 26,000 pounds or more.

The Senate had made the rate $2.50 but applied it only on the portion of the truck weighing more than 26,000 pounds.

Youth Gets 90 Days, $1,000 Fine in Case Of Printer's Beating

ST. LOUIS, June 21—John McLeskey, 18, of suburban Jennings today was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse and fined $1,000 by police Judge Morris Rosenthal for careless driving and peace disturbance in connection with the beating of a motorist here Friday.

Three of his companions were each fined $500 last Monday by Judge Rosenthal.

Charges against a fifth youth, a polio victim, were dismissed today on motion of the city counselor.

McLeskey filed notice of an appeal.

Pulled from his car and beaten was Marvin Noelken, a St. Louis printer.

He and his wife and their two small children were returning from a drive-in theater when they were chased by the five youths in McLeskey's car.

The chase lasted 28 blocks and ended when Noelken was forced to halt because of a flat tire.

McLeskey received the workhouse sentence and a $500 fine for careless driving and another $500 fine for disturbing Noelken's peace.

Wheeler advanced a prediction the water could be hauled for $8 for each 1,000 gallons.

Urges Army Aid Bethany Water Problem

Need for 20-Mile Pipeline Appealed By Gov. Donnelly

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today asked the Army Engineers to help ease the water shortage in Bethany, by building an emergency pipeline.

He said the plan would call for a 20-mile pipeline from the North Grand River to the city's reservoir. Meanwhile Bethany got ready for a trial run tomorrow at hauling water in tank trucks from Pattonsburg, 17 miles away.

Donnelly recalled that Army Engineers performed a similar emergency service three years ago when drought threatened the water supply at Edina, in northeastern Missouri.

Mrs. James D. Norcross

Miss Margot DeAnn Rogers Weds James D. Norcross in Sedalia

Miss Margot DeAnn Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rodgers, Clinton, formerly of Sedalia, became the bride of James D. Norcross, Kansas City, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Norcross, Warrensburg, in a double ring candle-light ceremony at eight, the evening of June 1 at the Broadway Presbyterian Church with the Rev. D. Warren Neal officiating. The altar was banked with two seven branch candelabra with baskets of blue majestics, white gladioli, ferns and jade foliage.

Miss Elizabeth Williams, Independence, college friend of the young couple, played a medley of traditional wedding music and favorites of the bride and groom on the organ. She accompanied Miss Shirlee Shambers, Chillicothe, sorority sister of the bride, who sang "One Alone," "Because," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and at the close of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," as the bride and groom knelt before the altar.

Telescope Will Be Available--

Mars Reaches Closest Point To the Earth This September

By Russell C. Maag

On the evening of Sept. 6, the planet Mars will be closer to Earth than it has since 1924. Its distance on this date will be 35.2 million miles and will not be as close again until August, 1971. Mars can be seen now rising about midnight and is quite red and conspicuous in an area within the boundaries of the constellation Aquarius. Observers watching the planet will see that it gradually moves eastward in relation to the stars and by time of closest approach will lie between Aquarius and Cetus.

The brightness of the planet will gradually increase as the weeks go by and it will rise earlier each night by about four minutes until the September date when it reaches what astronomers call opposition; that is, opposite the sun in the sky or to put it more clearly Mars will rise in the east at about the same time the Sun sets in the west. To the naked eye the planet will be fiery red and will almost equal Venus in brightness. Venus is the brilliant planet still to be seen in the western sky shortly after sunset.

Venus will soon be between us and the sun and be unobservable for a few weeks until it emerges from the bright area of the sun and will then be seen as a morning star rising just ahead of the sun in the morning sky.

The Sedalia Junior Astronomy Club will make telescopes available several times during the summer for persons interested to have a look at Mars. The superb optical qualities of the newly purchased telescope belonging to the club will make it possible to see quite a lot of the detail on the planet's surface. What can one see there with a good telescope?

The most conspicuous features will be the polar caps. At this close approach the south polar cap will be seen the best as it is pointed toward the Earth. The polar caps change in size with the seasons on Mars, attaining greatest area and conspicuousness during the winter season. Seasons on Mars are on the average twice as long as the comparable seasons on Earth, simply because Mars is about twice as far from the Sun as Earth and its axis is inclined to its orbit a little more than that of Earth.

There is little doubt that the polar caps are composed of frozen water, but from the reflecting power of the caps and the speed with which they disappear after the coming of Martian spring, it is believed that these layers of snow, frost and ice are only a few inches thick. In the course of about one month's observation of the planet one can detect either a decrease or increase in the size of the polar caps depending upon the season there. Probably the ice changes directly into gas, without going through a liquid state. This process is known as sublimation and would be possible with the very low atmospheric pressure of Mars. However, when the Martian atmosphere contains sufficient water vapor, melting can occur and the behavior of a conspicuous dark fringe bordering the cap suggests that the soil is actually dampened as the snows or ice melt.

Sometimes large white areas appear at the sunrise limb of Mars and disappear before reaching Mars noon position. They behave exactly like deposits of frost, formed during the night and disappearing as the sun sets higher. Compared with the Earth, clouds are rare on Mars, but they have been observed many times. In 1954 an enormous W-shaped cloud persisted for a month, evaporating every morning and reforming every afternoon. With the spectrograph it has been found that the only gas in the atmosphere of Mars is carbon dioxide. If any water vapor or oxygen are present, they exist in such small quantities that they cannot be detected. It is believed that most of the Martian atmosphere is composed of nitrogen. This may be as much as 98 per cent, however, the lines in the spectrum of nitrogen are cut out by the Earth's atmosphere and have not been seen.

Mars receives only about four-ninths as much heat per unit area as Earth and one would suppose the average temperature of the planet would be much lower than it is. The reason for this is the thin atmosphere which Mars possesses. The surface temperature at the equator of Mars has been measured as having an average maximum summer reading of 75 degrees Fahrenheit. At sunrise the same area may have a temperature on the average of a minus 60 degrees; that is, 60 degrees below freezing Fahrenheit. The polar regions on Mars undergo very great changes with a range of some 200 degrees.

Aside from the polar caps the next most conspicuous feature on Mars is its vivid red color. This has been thought to be oxidized material and perhaps is in the form of iron oxide for the most part. Mars at one time probably had a denser atmosphere containing a lot of oxygen, but over a period of several hundred years all the oxygen has combined with rocks and minerals on the planet's surface and it's this red oxide of iron which we see reflected. Within these reddened areas can be seen patches of blue, green and greyish material which have given all indications that they might be some form of very low plant life such as lichens or mosses. These areas do become conspicuous in the late spring, summer and early fall seasons on Mars and then turn to shades of grey, brown and black as winter approaches. This seems to follow the same seasonal pattern of growth and fruition and decay as on earth.

The great controversy concerning features on Mars' surface is the question of the "canals" so called. This feature was supposed to have started with the work of an Italian astronomer by the name of Schiaparelli and in 1877 he reported he observed many fine lines crossing Mars' surface. He called these lines "canali," which is the Italian word for "channels." This word, however, was interpreted as "canals" which implied channels of artificial construction. Schiaparelli had no intention of implying that they were made by intelligent beings, but the idea was very strongly advocated by many people.

One of the most influential advocates of the canal theory was Percival Lowell who established the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., for the express purpose of studying the Martian features. Lowell obtained large grants of money to set up the best equipment in the world for this study. The principal instrument was a 24-inch reflector, still in use today and still reportedly the most optically perfect refracting telescope ever built. This great telescope will again be used this year to try once and for all to solve some of the mysteries of the red planet.

A new instrument recently devised by Bendix-Friese Corporation and employing electronic principles will be attached to the Lowell refractor to produce a very sharp image of the planet. Also other large telescopes will be used including the Hale 200-inch atop Mt. Palomar in California. Astronomers all over the world will be directing telescopes on Mars for the next few months in the hope that many of the mysteries of this planet might be solved. New techniques, fast photographic films and electronic processes developed in the past few years will greatly enhance the work.

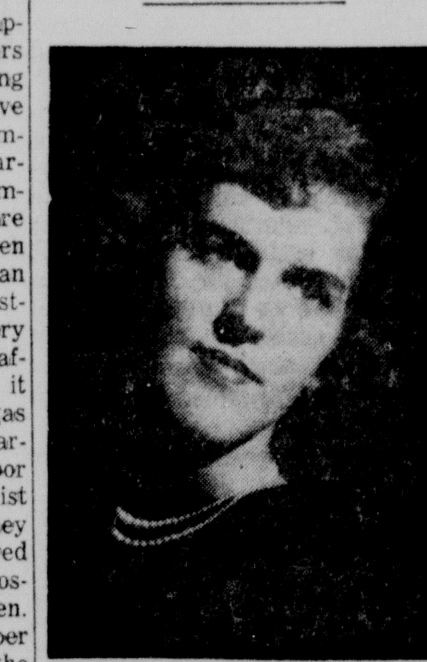

The Sedalia Junior Astronomy Club extends an invitation to anyone to come and see Mars at times to be announced by this newspaper. Just remember you won't have such an opportunity again for 15 years.

Poison Ivy Crop Is Big This Season

By HENRY FREE
Written for NEA Service

Poison ivy is enjoying bountiful growth this year, due no doubt to abundant rain and cool weather. This attractive vine, unfortunately, causes more discomfort to people than any other single plant in America.

It seems to thrive everywhere and strangely enough is frequently found growing in the congested areas of many of our larger cities.

Few folks are immune to ivy poisoning—and I will continue to act cautiously when handling it as my lifetime record of immunity may be spoiled at any time.

However, to be on the safe side after handling, I immediately wash my hands and face with either gasoline or a strong laundry soap. This washing kills the non-volatile oil, the cause of the poisoning.

The old warning "leaflets three, let them be" should be remembered when in doubt about its identification.

Poison ivy can be distinguished by the fact that the leaves occur in threes and the fruits are white. The leaves of the harmless ivy are clustered in fives and the berries are black or red.

The berries of the three-leaved ivy are intensely poisonous, and cases of illness among children have been reported from eating them.

In autumn, as in spring, the plant is singularly attractive. Its leaves turn many shades of red, yellow and brown. Some plants, particularly those growing in the shade, have a tendency to carry all yellow leaves. Conversely, red leaves seem to be peculiar to plants of sunny exposure.

There are exceptions to these rules, however, and frequently the leaves are a mixture of all three colors. The plants may be dwarf or may grow to several feet in height, climbing to the top of posts, trees and other objects.

Frequent cultivation will keep poison ivy under control. When it is growing next to planted shrubs, or valuable trees where chemical sprays cannot safely be used, grubbing must be resorted to.

Another method of control in such cases is to carefully coat with an old paint brush as many leaves as possible and the woody stems near the ground with a new weed killer listed as 245-T. This is a combination, with 24-D, and is much more effective in killing woody plants.

Along fences, walks and roads, where injury to another vegetation need not be considered, chemical sprays offer the best means of control. The advantage of this method is that it reduces the possibility of any contact with the plant.

Commercial chemical spray with ammonium sulfamate (sold under the trade name of Am-mate), one pound to each gallon of water, will give safe and effective control. The solution is sprayed on the foliage. Several applications may be necessary as poison ivy is a persistent vine.

Stolen Car's Trunk Yields Grocery Cache

A 1953 Chevrolet coach which was found on the banks of Flat Creek, four miles southeast of Smithton, stolen from Florence, Kan., on June 13th, has been returned to its owner, Hugh Price. That was when a representative of the insurance company came after it and unlocked the trunk.

In the trunk of the car was found a large quantity of groceries which were reported to have been stolen from the Plymouth Grocery, near Emporia, Kansas, 30 miles east of Florence. The car was stolen at Florence and driven to Missouri and abandoned on the banks of Flat Creek after considerable trouble of getting the car "ditched".

The thieves then went to Florence, Mo., and stole another which they abandoned at Hamilton, Kan., southeast of Florence, Kan., according to information received by the Missouri State Patrol.

Packed tight in the car from Kansas were the following articles: Ten pairs of gloves; two one-pound boxes of crackers; 48 candy bars; 36 bottles cola; 35 bottles lemon soda; 30 cans grape soda; 23 cans orange soda; 15 loaves white bread; one loaf raisin bread; three packages of potato chips; two partial packs vanilla wafers; one full pack vanilla wafers; one package coconut bars; one package chocolate rolls; three packages chocolate fudge cookies; three molasses cookies; two oatmeal cookies; two packages of graham crackers; one package of wafers; eight paper plates; two cigarettes; one roll paper towels; 6 cans of beef stew; 17 cans spaghetti and meat balls; 18 cans chicken noodle soup; eight cans prune plums; one can blackberries; and one 5 gal gasoline can.

Gives Promise Of the Same Merger Status

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Congregational Christians were assured today that their traditional "freedom of faith and manner of worship" won't be hampered in a proposed, historic merger with another denomination.

An executive committee, headed by the Rev. Dr. Raymond Walker, Portland, Ore., sought to answer rumblings of complaint that the union might apply central coercion on the keenly-cherished "local autonomy" of Congregational Christian churches.

Brought together in the merger would be two churches of distinctly separate origins and organizational customs—the first such union in America to bridge such a gap in the multiple families of protestantism.

Dr. Albert Buckner Coe, of Boston, moderator of the Congregational Christian Church, told the meeting last night the vitality of the church has always derived from its ability to progress and adapt to new needs.

"We have the ability to change — to change without losing our faith or our freedom," he said.

Earlier, the delegates unanimously elected George B. Hastings, a Grant, Neb., attorney and a former county prosecutor and state senator, as Council moderator, the church's top elective post. He succeeds Dr. Coe at the end of the current meeting.

In accepting the office, he said "I would plead for unity of spirit, unity of purpose and unity in organization."

Bristling attacks on the proposed church union marked the opening session, and drew a plea later from the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Bradford, of Jaffrey, N.H., that the subject be approached under God's guidance.

'Old Julius' Is Given Bum's Rush at Last

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—"Old Julius" at last will have to go. The fate of the statue of a Civil War soldier on the City Hall lawn became final yesterday when the City Council took the final step to get a new city hall.

"Old Julius" had been the center of many storms of controversy as moves to get him away from the City Hall failed in the past.

He will be moved to Jones Park, building commissioner Robert J. Keeley said.

The 58-year-old City Hall, termed a "monstrosity" by Keeley, will be torn down at a cost of about $30,000, and the area paved for a parking lot.

The city took the final step for a new city hall by adopting a resolution providing for acquisition of a four-story air condition Union Electric Office Building at a cost of $260,000.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (AP)—Favored Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City breezed to a second round triumph in the Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament today, but defending champion Jim Jackson of St. Louis got by on the skin of his teeth.

McKissick Steps Down As Jeffersonian Club Head in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 21 (AP)—Henry McKissick, long a man to be reckoned with on the Kansas City political scene, stepped down today as president of the Jeffersonian Club.

The short 230-pound onetime tavern operator turned the reins of the Fifteenth Street faction over to Tom Gill, who usually has presided over club meetings "because he's a better talker."

McKissick's faction takes in the Second Ward and several precincts outside, making his unit one of the most powerful in the state.

Appearing before about 60 members at the meeting today, McKissick said he was a very busy man with his beer sales company and his job as executive secretary of the Tavern Owners' Assn.

"I'm getting up in years," he added in a short speech.

"But," he added, "I'm still going to be around."

Thereupon Gill's name was put up, nominations were closed and the new president was named by acclamation.

Gill is a former circuit court clerk and state representative.
